

We are currently looking for .NET developers to work on a broad range of exciting current and new projects.

As a team, we are down-to-earth yet ambitious, highly-skilled yet casual, friendly yet professional, strikingly different from each other yet bound by our common human values. Proactive people who thrive on change and are driven to improve themselves and others everyday are the kind of people that will love working with us.

We'd love for our new addition to be authentic, driven, professional and filled with purpose, with excellent written and verbal communication skills.

If you are chosen, you will be accountable for leading the development of back-end projects and ensuring the technical architecture of these are sound.

essential competencies

- REST API development (3 to 5 years)
- C# experience (3 to 5 years)
- ASP.NET experience (1 to 3 years)
- MSSQL experience (1 to 3 years)

advantageous skills

- Hosting ASP.NET apps on Azure
- Redis
- Elasticsearch
- Web development – Javascript, HTML, CSS
- Monitoring tools like New Relic or Traceview
- Git
- Experience with distributed data centres, using failover & redundancy in architecture

personal attributes

- A professional who understands that best results are achieved through collaborating with others, and not just in working alone
- Broadly skilled with the ability to adapt to different tools or workflows according to the deadline or output required
- Passionate about keeping abreast of changes in your chosen area of technology

- The ability to ingest constructive criticism and work with team input while staying true to the product
- The maturity to work purposefully and steadily under pressure with all kinds of clients
- The culture of imparting knowledge to co-workers, regardless of years of experience, and to constantly acquire and adopt knowledge from others
- A strong online presence (you share your interests on social media) and innate drive to share your knowledge (active participation in the community)
- Career-focused with the motivation to forge one's own path to success within a high-performing team
- The ability to travel and work away from the office for a week at a time when required
- The drive to be the best in the industry in every task one undertakes
- The diligence and discipline to get things done, no matter the level or perceived cachet of the task
